Confused about who's and whose? Learn their difference with clear explanations and examples for better writing skills.

Whose is a possessive adjective meaning "of or relating to whom or which." Grammatically speaking, we use the term possessive to refer to relationships beyond simple ownership.

The main difference is simple: "who's" is a contraction that stands for "who is" or "who has," while "whose" is the possessive form of "who," used to show ownership.

Who's and whose are easy to confuse. Who's means who is or who has. Whose shows possession (e.g., Never trust a doctor whose plants have died).

Whose is the possessive form of the pronoun who, whereas who's is a contraction linking the words who is or who has. Whose and who's are homophones, meaning they sound ...

Whose and who's are homophones that are often confused by learners and native speakers of English alike. Here is a short guide to help understand the difference between them.
